

Juan Carlos Linares is President and CEO of Association House of Chicago, an original settlement house founded in 1899 and today one of the region's largest social service agencies. Juan Carlos previously served as the City of Chicago's first Chief Engagement Officer, a cabinet-level role leading the improvement of communities through meaningful engagement, and prior to that served as Executive Director of LUCHA, a Humboldt Park-based affordable housing development agency which drew national prominence in housing, health and energy equity.

Juan Carlos is also a Lecturer-in-Law instructing the Hate Crime Law course at the University of Chicago Law School and he currently serves on the Boards of the Latino Policy Forum, Urban Theater Company and the Woodstock Institute. Juan Carlos has been a fellow with the Aspen Institute, Leadership Great Chicago and the Chicago Community Trust. His parents are proud immigrants from Peru and from Guatemala and today, Juan Carlos resides on the south side of Chicago with his wife Monica, a child welfare attorney, and their two kids.
